Coaching and team report 2018

It's been an interesting year.

The north-west team has represented at tour of Scotland for the first time, and performed admirably with some of the worst luck. Bad luck visited us with greater vigour to end tour of Norway aspirations, and hopefully I have done enough to keep our invite for 2019.

Coaching in the region is good, areas for improvement have been identified and can be addressed.

Looking ahead to 2019, I aim to bring coaching forums back before the end of 2018 and use an initial meeting with the volunteers of the region to decide what form these take. I have already secured support from BC staff for these and funding approved at regional board meetings.

I hope to use these forums to improve communication between the board and the region to ensure that information, opportunities and best practice are shared more regularly, formally and effectively.

A year of learning I feel promotes more success going forward.
